

Information about Stimulus Checks

Stimulus Checks – Q&A

Who gets a payment? Most adults with incomes below $99,000 ($198,000 for a married couple) will receive stimulus checks.

Who doesn't get a payment? If you are age 17 and over and are listed as a dependent on someone else's tax return, you won't receive a stimulus check.

How much will I get? Adults with incomes below $75,000 ($150,000 for a married couple) will get the full amount of $1200. You'll also receive a $500 check for each child listed on your tax return. If your income is between $75,000 and $99,000, your payment is reduced by $5 for each $100 of income above the threshold of $75,000.

Is it really a check? For most people, your payment will arrive in your bank account and you will receive a notice in the mail that it has been deposited. If the government doesn't have bank account information for you, then you will be mailed a check.

What do I have to do to get my payment? The government will use your 2019 income tax return to automatically determine if you are due a payment and send it to the bank account listed for direct deposit of a tax refund. If you haven't filed a 2019 return, they will use your 2018 income tax return. If you are not required to file tax returns, but receive Social Security, Railroad Retirement, SSI or VA benefits, the government will automatically calculate your payment and will send the payment to the bank account where you receive your benefit check. If none of these situations apply to you, you must register online at: <https://www.irs.gov/coronavirus/non-filers-enter-payment-info-here>

When will I get it? Payments have started to those with the lowest income and direct deposit information available. It may be August before all payments are completed. You can check the status of your payment at <https://www.irs.gov/coronavirus/get-my-payment>.

Where can I get more information? Keep up to date with the latest news at www.irs.gov/coronavirus. Note that the program is officially called 'Economic Impact Payment'. If you own a small business, you should rely on information at www.sba.gov/coronavirus.
